THE PLATE VERSUS CALIFORNIA.

We have received by the mail the complete Review for the Year 1883 of the Trade, Commerce, &c., of California. We note that the wool clip of California since 1876 shows a gradual decline, being in that year 56,550,970 lbs. against 40,848,690 lbs. in 1883. We also note that the total immigration into California last year was only 28,280 against 40,015 in 1882. In the last 25 years, the heaviest year for immigration was 1875, when it reached 65,500, and now the figures are not one-half. Private land in the remote Californian districts sells from 5 to 20 pats. per acre—say from 35,000 to 130,000 pats. per league.

The following summary of Californian facts occupies the most prominent place in our San Franciscan colleagues; and, as they may interest many in this market and may introduce a similar system of methodizing some of the principal facts about the Plate—a very capital plan to show the condition of the country—we give the table. We recommend it to Mr. Latzina, our National Government statistician, and hope he will, side by side with the Californian figures, give us those of the River Plate. The comparison might instruct us in many things worth learning. It will be seen that in very many, and perhaps the grandest and principal items, the Plate far and away beats California.

Our San Franciscan colleague, writing of his country and its fine lands, treads in our foot prints, yet he is not charged with enthusiasm or extreme zeal. That the Plate is superior in fertility of soil to California admits of no manner of doubt, since we find the pasturage estimate for the very richest and best Californian camp is one sheep to the acre, and ten acres for every cow; yet these lands are extolled to the skies. We consider the subject of the very highest importance to this country, if for no other object than to shew the River Plate public that the editor of the Standard is no dreamy enthusiast, but bases his faith in the great future of this country on what he knows and reads of other lands, and also to establish the fact that to the present the Plate has slept, and is only now waking up. The San Francisco Journal of Commerce says:—

Notwithstanding the assertion of Malthusians, the earth has still more than enough room for all her children. The land area of the globe is not less than fifty-one millions of square miles, of which two-thirds, at a very conservative estimate, is capable of yielding richly at the invitation of the husbandman. The improvements in agriculture are such that it is possible to bring up all the land on its suface to average per acre fifty bushels of wheat and much more of many other products. The equivalent of ten bushels per head will supply all the food needed by the average man, so that every acre may be made to sustain five men in plenty, and with other productive, life-sustaining products, more. That is to say that the land on the earth's surface can support as a minimum not less than 3,200 persons to the square mile, or one hundred and eight billion four hundred millions of people. This may seem incredible, but we have stated the bare facts. If one acre only produced enough food for the support of one person, there would still be enough to supply with food nearly twenty-two billions of people.

It is evident, therefore, that it is the distribution of the world's population, not its numbers, that is productive of so much misery. That, combined with landlordism and the system of entail, converts fertile countries into so many hells out of which so many of its helpless population seek in vain to escape—out of their hell there is apparently no redemption. The only way to improve their positions is to take them to lands where there is still abundant room for millions and to transfer their labor to where it may be productive, where it will make the wilderness blossom as the rose, and where they may enjoy prosperity themselves and transfer an unincumbered inheritance to their children.

There are many such smiling lands on the broad surface of the earth, but none more attractive under the magic wand of labor, none more productive than the golden lands of California. It has a surface of ninety-nine, or say in round numbers, one hundred millions of acres, of which at least two-thirds is arable or may be made so by the labor of willing hands. On the basis of one per acre we have here broad acres enough to supply sixty-six millions of people with food, homes and comfort. That is to say that more than the present population of the U. States could find subsistance in California.

California has an area greater than that of either Italy or Great Britain and Ireland, and but little inferior to that of France, Spain, Austria, or the German Empire, and has a soil and climate capable of growing anything that can be raised in the old world from the Desert of Sahara to the Baltic Sea. Its great interior valley, known the northern portion as the Sacramento, the southern as the San Joaquin from the rivers that drain it, is unexcelled in fertility by the celebrated valley of the Nile, which has retained its richness through ages of cultivation. The inundations that occur at stated periods are therefore, from this point of view, to be regarded with favor, as they render its fertility perennial. The soil in some places is as much as thirty feet in depth, a matter equalled but in few other countries of the continent.

With a population of say a million souls, we have more territory than Great Britain and Ireland with thirty-two millions, as much as France north and west of the Rhone with thirty-five millions, as much as Austria, less her western Slavonic provinces with an equal population, as much as the German Empire, less the provinces of the Rhine, and more than Italy. All these support a population of thirty-three to thirty-seven millions, and have been famed in history. There are none of them, save perhaps Italy, at all comparable to California, so far as ability to support a dense population in comfort is concerned, and are much inferior in many other respects. She can produce the silk of Lombardy, the wine of France, Spain or Hungary, the wheat of Ireland, British or Hongary, and the fruits as well of the North as of the South. Nothing but labor is needed to make the land a paradise, and labor much less exacting than that needed in any of the lands of which we have spoken. There is of course no comparison between the soil of rugged, sterile liberty-loving New England and that of this new Italy of the west—California.

One of the most desirable things to study in seeking out a new country is the climate. One can bear that of their native country, be it hot or cold or subject to violent extremes, with comparative ease, but in going to a new land violent changes are liable to break down the strongest constitution and to destroy health, without which neither wealth nor comfort can be had, nor is the former desirable. Now, of all the climates of America, from the Arctic circle to the Southern Ocean, that of California is best adapted to the white race inhabiting the United States, Europe, Western Asia, and Northern Africa. There is no portion of it too hot, none too cold, while those who wish to select a climate have abundant choice."

We have yet much more to publish from the extended review sheets of our Californian colleague, but not to tire our readers, we shall make our extracts into short chapters. California is in many respects immensely behind the Plate, but we certainly must admit that, had we in the Plate the men of California, their brains and energy, our lands at Guamini, Trenquelauquen and Gainza would be considered dead cheap at 150,000 pats. per league; and we can measure the distance in brain and energy between the two countries by the price of our lands. Let us not breathe a word about our cattle or sheep.

THE FOREIGN CLUB.

Founded in 1841, it retains, more than perhaps any other institution in the city, its primitive nature; the old chairs and tables seem to speak of forty years ago; progress and art have been dead letters within its walls. The protecting spirit of Rosas still appears to hover round its council chamber, and the only work of art which adorns its walls is the jovial likeness of its founder.

Its members seem to cling fondly to the old style of architecture, and are satisfied with the present building, which, whilst presenting some advantages in the way of large patios, has nothing to recommend in its long, narrow rooms. The reading-room on the left is the best room, but badly ventilated, so much so that, when the gas is lighted, the heat becomes oppressive, insupportable in the summer, and in the winter with the doors shut, and fires lighted, equally so—the library and conversation room on the right hand side has poor accommodation. The billiard-room in front is badly lighted, gloomy, and barely wide enough; the other billiard-room, for the French tables, is a narrow slip; the manager's office and committee room is a dismal den; perhaps a brighter and more cheerful apartment would infuse more liberty into the meetings held there, and give a more jocund expression to the countenance of the manager.

Formerly, the feeding department was let out to Café rangers, but lately the Club has taken the restaurant into its own hands. Members were looking forward to good cooking at moderate prices, but they have been disappointed on finding the old Cafe way of serving continued, and the breakfast, although the best meal given, is eaten in almost the gloom and darkness of a prison cell, owing to the hideous construction of the dining room.

A few years ago, an active secretary took compassion on the dreary walls and damp stained ceilings; workmen from Roma were called in to adorn and embellish, but the water and lily of Oscar Wilde would have been more in harmony with the building, and plain paint and whitewash would have saved many dollars, and much bad taste.

Members keep increasing, and to shew the utility of the Club, no less than nearly one hundred travellers are now entered as visitors, and a number of these, like preceding ones, will, no doubt, become new members.

The conservative nature of the committees and many members dislike this intrusion, and from the nature of their action, their wishes are, if possible, to check the entrance of so many 'transeuntes,' whereas it should be the reverse, as the formation of the Club, no doubt, sprang from the necessity of having a place of resort, as much for foreign residents as for travellers coming to these shores.

My object in furnishing these few lines is to see whether it is not possible to put some action in motion for the formation of a new Club, worthy in every way of the large foreign representation in this country. I should say with a fair amount of cohesion of the numerous representative men of German, French, Spanish, Italian and English nationalities, sufficient funds could be raised to build a Club worthy of the large foreign element in this country, doubly so now that this city is the capital of the Republic. It would, I think, be a compliment paid to Argentines, to erect in their midst a monument in the shape of a fine building which could proudly rank as one of the many stately edifices of this city.

Progress.

GENERAL ROCA'S LUCK.

THE THIRTY MILLION LOAN.

The loan is launched, in spite of the cackle of those who live in the Bolsa, insidiously conjuring up artificial clouds to raise a storm, and fill their pockets at the expense of their neighbours. Hide your shamed faces, all of you who, since January last, have strained every nerve to bring about a monetary crisis, to serve political ends! The iniquity of your manœuvres well deserves the defeat you have suffered.

Not only has the loan been placed easily on most advantageous terms, proving once again the firmness of Argentine credit, a firmness based on the world's confidence in present Argentine policy, but there is another circumstance that adds notably to the brilliancy of this national financial victory: The house of Morgan, which now for the first time deals with the Argentine Republic, is one of the first on the earth. It lends to Russans and Frenchmen! Peabody, the founder of the firm is an illustrious name in English philanthropy. He gave millions of pounds sterling in public charity.

To this towering height has Argentine credit already risen!

Yesterday, commenting on this fact, which has naturally created a most favourable public impression, a German merchant who has recently retired from the Board of the Provincial Bank, exclaimed, "What luck General Roca has!" True. But the luck of the President of the Republic does not consist in the uncertain smiles of Chance, but in his determination to keep his administration in the groove he marked out for it.

From the date of the Rivadavia Loan up to 1880 we pledged our National Credit for over one hundred millions of dollars, yet we have barely the Tucuman Railway to show for it all. Ninety millions were squandered in the wars of Rosas, in the struggle between the Confederation and Buenos Ayres, in the Paraguayan war, and civil contests prior to Pavon. Since General Roca took the rudder of the Ship of State in hands, we have squandered no treasure. His is the first Argentine Government that uses the country's revenue and its growing credit to foment its progress.

Cling to your pessimist views if you will, but cast a look around you!

You see the 'plazas' of Buenos Aires crowded with workmen and piled high with materials; its streets obstructed owing to the public works going on; public buildings of modern style springing up on all sides; its parks crowded; new avenues opened, and a kind of delirious transformation going on in favour of health, comfort and culture. The same thing is to be witnessed all over the Republic, which has become an immense workshop overflowing with the expansive forces of Civilization. From our frontiers—now rendered safe—to our remotest seaboard, the workman's hammer is heard, laying down, in the Nation's name, the germs of future progress. Sub-delegations, canals, colonies, railways, roads, bridges, Artesian wells, dams, schools, colleges, ports, the clearance of rivers, wharves, Customs' warehouses, telegraphs, forts, new hamlets—all flourishing alike in the atmosphere of Order that now prevails in our towns as on our vast plains. These are the pulsations of that workshop, which affords a spectacle unique in the history of Argentine policy, and at the same time a secure pedestal—hitherto wanting—whereon the bankers of Europe can solidly erect the grandest combinations of our National Credit.

This is General Roca's luck?

No! It is the well-foreseen result of his policy, which has not shed one single drop of Argentine blood, or spent the public treasure on anything but reproductive works.—Tribuna Nacional.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

The state of the atmosphere yesterday though not altogether reasuring gave promise of tolerably good weather for to-day in which case the races on the Palermo race-course will be sure to come off. The first race is looked upon in the light of a match between Pan and Terminacion and up to last night continued to create very lively interest among our turfites and both horses are backed to a large amount the odds being rather in favor of Terminacion. For the second race Premio Ilucion Madreselva has regained her position of first favourite and in the Premio Producto Mohican and Pegaso dispute the premiership. There has been some enquiry about the Autumn Handicap to be run on 22nd May as well as for the Gold Cup run at Lanus in November and the quotations at the "Turf Agency" are as follows:—

ODDS AND ENDS.

March 27th.

Of far more interest than news at once irritating and unintelligible from filibusters, British or French, in Egypt and Madagascar, is the simple announcement from Calcutta that the labours of the German medical commission, consisting of Drs. Koch, Fischer and Gaffky, have resulted in the discovery of the microscopic parasite to the presence of which the cholera is due. From previous investigations it was still doubtful whether the "bacillus" was an effect or the cause of the disease. It seems to be now proved that its presence in the intestines is the absolute cause of cholera, because the particular organism, shaped like a minute stick or ruler, is not found in ordinary cases of dysentery and diarrhœa; and an English surgeon in India, Dr. Vincent Richards, has been fortunate enough to give the final confirmation that was still wanting in the theories of the German commissioners, by communicating what is believed to be genuine cholera to a pig, which died in three hours after the cholera poison had been administered. Dr. Koch and his colleagues return soon to Germany. They hoped to renew their investigations next winter in India when the weather is more favourable to researches of this kind. It is doubtful now whether there will be any necessity to renew the investigations, since Dr. Richards has succeeded in artificially propagating cholera. Hitherto, in this respect, the efforts of the German commission had failed in all cases. What they did prove was, that a tank used both for drinking purposes and for bathing, by the inhabitants of a place in India, where an outbreak of cholera occurred, was full of "bacilli," and, that as the pest declined, the parasites in the water diminished in quantity. It is now thought, with more reason than ever, that the malaria in the Roman campagna, and even "chicken cholera" in fowls, and other complaints to which man or beast is subject, are due to parasites of forms specifically associated with the particular disease.

This question, to us is of great interest at a time when we hear so much of "poison in the milk pail." The parasites proper to foot and mouth disease, will now be hauled up.

I spoke of filibustering, and we have heard a good deal of the annexation of New Guinea by the colony of Queensland, and of the expansion of England and so forth, by a wider imperial policy. A very good authority on all Australasian questions has said a few words in respect to New Guinea, which I think are worth quoting. He says:—

But the fate of New Guinea and all those semi-equatorial islands is of little importance to us. They will never be the home of the English race. White men cannot work out of doors in these lands. They will be to us practically estates worked by coloured labour under our protection. A source of wealth, perhaps, but not a seat of empire. And that observation leads me to speak of what is one of the great rocks ahead in the future of the Australasian continent. Queensland, as one of the most thriving and prosperous colonies of the Crown, has a great future before it. It is half-tropical—that is to say, throughout the whole of the northern portion of the colony it must be worked by coloured, not by white, labour. To develop its resources adequately would require the importation of millions of Indians, Chinese, Polynesians, or Papuans. What are you to do with these men? On what system are you to govern them? You will have the experience of the United States reproduced at the Antipodes. You cannot give these myriads of Asiatics an equal voice in the election of the Legislature. Neither can you safely govern them by a minority of planters. In that case you will reproduce the oligarchy of the Southern States, and although you may not describe it as slavery, yet you will have a free South and a semi-civilized North, supplying all the elements of civil war and future convulsion. That is one of the great elements looming in the future. Nor can I see my way through it."

I must add to these weighty remarks, that the whole question of civilizing, or, as a member of the New Zealand Parliament once said, with hideous cynicism, "syphylizing," Polynesian and barbarous countries is becoming part of a stupendous subject. It is now no longer a question of a few discoverers or navigators, or even of the sporadic efforts of church missions and commercial companies. Ships, railways and steamers drop, as it were, civilisation—spell is as you please—by the way.

The process of overrunning the earth is almost automatic. Nations and Governments are affected by the new process and attempt to keep pace with it by sending expeditions in the old way here and there, a policy which must result in a world-wide scramble that will be most fatal to the victor, whoever it may be. Colonies may pay, but possessions certainly do not. A newer method of replenishing the earth than by soldiers and sailors, gin and disease, bibles and commerce, under one flag, is the modern Ranche Company, which is not particular to stripes or checks, in the matter of bunting; but the English companies have, so far, confined their operations to our own colonies and the United States—and why should they not extend their benefits to Choel-e-Choel and Nahuel-Huapi.

Another cattle ranche, the Consolidated Land and Cattle Company, is announced this morning — capital, £750,000, in £5 shares, of which 100,000 shares are to be immediately issued.

The board, one of the most ornamental yet embarked in the ranche business consists of Lord Thurlow, Earl Strathmore, the Earl of Mar and Kellie, Lord Lovat, Sir George Macpherson Grant, M.P., and Messrs. J. McCulloch and H. C. Newson. The property to be acquired includes some half-dozen ranches in Texas, with a total acreage of 100,000 acres and about 100,000 head of cattle.

A casual observer, in one of the papers, gives a lively account of a London street market. I send you the following extract, as of possible interest to your "frozen meat" friends. They will see the prices of cheap meat, and, what is curious, although in one part of the article American "petrified cheese" and other imported food is referred to, there is not a word about New Zealand or River Plate mutton:—

"Now for the butcher's meat for Sunday dinner. Are you extravagant in your taste? And do you covet a bit of the sirloin? Here it is at 9½d. a pound. In a better class street you would pay say 11½d. for the same quality. Are you moderately content with boiling pieces? Here they are, too, at from 6d. to 8d. The cheaper pieces do not look very nice, but the 8d. cuts are quite as good as what you would pay 9½d. for in the other street. Do you long for a pork dinner? Well, I can hardly recommend what the pork-butchers show at 6½d. and 7d., but even for that you would pay 8d. and 9d. elsewhere. You have still to buy the vegetables, and, being accustomed to pay a 1s. stone for your potatoes, you look about for something at that price. 'What! four pounds for 2d.?' That's what the card says, and you repeat the ejaculation as you examine the potatoes, and find them little inferior to what many people pay twice the amount for. Then there are spring-greens to be got at a halfpenny a pound, and there is any amount of fresh rhubarb at 2d. a bundle; and by this time your straw bag is full, and you march off with your bundle, thinking that London is not such a dear place to live in after all,"

THE REPORTERS' GALLERY.

(Conclusion)

Did space permit, many interesting things could be told of the difficulties under which reporting was carried on in the days before accommodation was provided for reporters; of how Woodfall used to sit from early morning through a long debate, sustained only by a hard-boiled egg; of how Coleridge, sent down to take a great speech by Pitt, fell fast asleep and was awakened by the cheers which greeted the Minister's peroration, but wrote a speech for his paper nevertheless; and how, more daring still, a body of reporters, unable to obtain accommodation either by cajolery or entreaty, left the House in a body and resolved that a great blank should mark the space intended to be devoted to the same Premier's speech. After this the Speaker of the day (Charles Abbot, afterwards Lord Colchester) ordered the appropriation of a portion of the gallery to the reporters' exclusive use. The present gallery was erected after the fire in 1834.

Phonography, the railway, and the telegraph have combined to make modern reporting what it is. More recently the telephone has come into the field. As regards the perfecting of phonography, while it has tended to diffuseness it has secured verbal accuracy and completeness in a way that the old system could not do. It may be interesting briefly to indicate the arrangements for turning out a Parliamentary report. The corps, varying on different journals from, say, 8 to 16 men, is divided between the two Houses. One is engaged note-taking at a time. The reporter sits like a sentinel at his post, noting every point of taking every word as the importance of the speaker or the occasion requires, till he is relieved after a quarter of an hour or a half hour's "turn" by a colleague. He then proceeds to the comfortable and commodious writing rooms now provided, where he makes in long-hand a transcript of his notes, a labour which requires to be finished so that he shall be ready to resume his turn in the order of the rota. In this way the process of writing is never interrupted until the whole debate is in the hands of the printer. A string of messengers is on the spot to collate the copy and convey it to the office. To secure greater celerity one London journal has recently enlisted the aid of the telephone. Four of these instruments are now fitted up behind the gallery of the House of Commons, whence the copy is spoken by clerks straight to the ear of the compositors, who set it up by type-setting machines in one-quarter or one-sixth of the time occupied by the ordinary method of setting up matter for the Press. Thus a long speech may be said to extend from the mouth of the speaker to the printing office. There is nothing to prevent the line being extended to the newspaper reader in the street. It is a matter of almost daily occurrence in every first class newspaper in the country, whether in London, Manchester, Edinburgh, or Dublin—distance from St. Stephen's becomes immaterial—to see in proof the first portion of a speech while the speaker is still on his legs in the House.

Public business begins in the ordinary course at half-past four, and important statements made in the course of the first hour and a-half of the sitting may be read the same evening in New York or Washington by people going home from business. There is another side to this fact which is not so pleasant to contemplate. When questions of foreign policy are raised, when delicate negotiations are being carried on, Ministerial statements are instantly flashed from the gallery to the foreign Government chiefly interested; it may be even to an enemy's camp. The legislative chamber is a whispering gallery to the world. Ministers, it may be assumed, are fully alive to the significance of the fact; that hon. members at all times keep it sufficiently in view when baiting the front bench there is sometimes reason to doubt.

As we all know, the new Reform Bill is the "pièce de résistance" of the present session. It usually happens that the division in great party measures is taken in the small hours. Supposing the crucial vote on the Representation of the People were taken as late as 3 in the morning, the fate of the measure would be known in the editorial sanctum of every London newspaper almost before the cheers and counter-cheers have died away in the House. Within half an hour the result would be known also in the office of every journal of any consequence in the Kingdom. An hour later the special expresses will bear the broadsheets flying over the length and breadth of the land.—Summary.

LORD WOLSELEY ON THE SOUDAN CAMPAIGN.

General Lord Wolseley, who presided last evening at the thirteenth annual festival of the United Kingdom Railway Officers and Servants' Association, held at the Cannon-street Hotel, in replying to the toast of the "Army, Navy, and Reserve Forces," said the deeds of the gallant band in the Soudan and of the gallant general who commanded it spoke for themselves. He had had some little experience himself of war, and having carefully studied the accounts that had been received from Egypt of the manner in which the campaign had been carried out, and of the way in which a gallant and determined enemy had resisted her Majesty's arms, he could confidently say that not only was there no man living who could remember such a hard-fought battle, but that not within the last century—he might almost say since arms of precision had been invented—had our men ever encountered any more determined foe, or had any general been called upon to fight so hard fought a battle (cheers). It had been his privilege to know General Graham since he entered the service. He had taken part with him shoulder to shoulder in several campaigns; he knew him well; he knew his worth, and he did not believe if we sought not only in our army, but in any army in the world, we could find a commander more able than he who had been selected by his Royal Highness the Commander in-Chief (cheers). General Graham was a man who belonged to the corps of Royal Engineers, which was the most highly instructed and most scientifically taught body of men in our army. With professional knowledge, aided, no doubt, by those qualities with which he was endowed by nature, and which were not to be acquired from books—indomitable pluck and energy—he rendered any force he commanded invincible. Believing these operations were an end, he thought they could look back and feel that the gallant body of men under General Graham had added another glorious page to the military history of this country (cheers).

LATEST FROM BRAZIL.

Rio, April 15th

Visconde de Figueiredo arrived here from Paris on the 9th, upon, it is said, business connected with the great Luso-Brazilian bank he and some other important capitalists of Rio and Portugal have in view to establish.

Mr. Thomas A. Osborn, the United States resident minister here, left Rio in the Reliance, for a visit to the United States. We wish a pleasant voyage and an unfailing return to a gentleman whose quiet and unpretending character has not preventing his being thoroughly respected by all, both officially and privately.

Mr Latham, the empresario of, we are told, an English company that had been giving representations in the River Plate, had the idea of coming to Rio to try to obtain subscriptions for representations in this city, and the indian-rubber conscience to ask £25, in advance, for a five seat box and nine representations! He seems to have thought that coffee is at $9 the arroba and exchange at 27 1d, and that the English public in Rio is so gullible as to be willing to buy stale and heavy comedies and dramas at their weight in gold.

The grand Quillinan subscription got up last year by the Folha Nova, to obtain money for the publication in English and French of José de Arriega's anglophobic "Portugal and her Colonies", resulted in the magnificent sum of $299! It seems, therefore, that the 50,000 Portuguese in Rio did not hold in as high estimation as the Folha Nova the service rendered to Portugal by Major Quillinan's challenge to the old man, and moreover a quaker, who, as every one knows, is religiously non-combatant and when slapped on one cheek turns the other to the aggressor, as Christ commanded, although it is whispered that some of the sect, having thus fulfilled the letter of the law, have been known to then give full vent to the old man Adam within them, and give their assailant a most unreligious thrashing.

We hear that the Rio abolitionists, who have sworn by the head of the man and a brother to place Sr. Lafayette's cap of liberty upon the crown of every Rio slave by the 7th of September next, have commenced their assault upon slavery in the metropolis by turning their emancipatory engines upon the bonds of the cooks, thus placing the owners of the said cooks in the dilemma of either risking losing those who were so sweetly ministering to the beatitude of their most sensitive organ, or of risking untold gripings and tortures in the same organ by angering its highpriest with denial of freedom.—Anglo Brazilian Times.

EDITOR'S TABLE

The accounts from the Bahia Blanca excursionists are all of the most cheering kind. All agree as to the perfect, nay paternal, arrangements for their comfort made by the Southern Railway. Nobody can possibly say on this great occasion that "they do these things better in France!" By Sts. George, Patrick and Andrew they do not! This splendidly organised trip to Bahia Blanca will create a revolution in railway travelling in this country. No man on this memorable excursion will ever again be satisfied to travel in dirty, shaky carriages, with no refreshment except the indigestible stuff to be had at station 'confiterias.' No Señor! The railway-train cars of the near future must be first-class hotels on wheels. The telegrams give spasmodic details of the journey down, but we prefer to wait for the full written details of the trip, which our readers may expect in our next issue.

The "Grand Old Man" is to the fore again in the House of Commons. The Nacion had a special telegram yesterday, stating that, in reply to a question in the House, he turned on his interlocutor and told him that the Government did not want to be told how to save Chinese Gordon, and would do it its own way.

The weather yesterday looked propitious for the races to-day. As the course will be in splendid order, neither hard nor heavy, excellent sport is more than probable.

Maria Taglioni, the greatest dancer that ever lived, is dead. We remember her well, and never saw any dancer that even approached her, except poor Emma Livry, who was burned to death on the stage in Paris some years ago.

Mr. Cassels had a trial, on Friday night, in the kiosk of the Central Market, of his machinery for lighting the streets by Electricity. The motors are two Ruston-Proctor engines of 50 horse-power and one of 20, supplied by Messrs. Forrester and Co. The trial was successful in every way, the light proving brilliant and steady to perfection

We had 340 male and three female visitors yesterday to look at the Battle of El Teb, and all agreed that it is a work of high art. Some of the regiments engaged wore the new grey uniform that is to replace the immortal "red coat." More's the pity! But red is too conspicuous a mark for modern rifles.

An uncle of the boy Etcheverry, whose abandonment in England by his tutor we recently announced, has turned up, and the child will be brought out here at his expense.

A singular occurrence is reported from San Nicolas. While the steamer Minerva's passengers were landing there early on the 24th, a second class passenger, named Fortunato, a sleep-walker, rose from his berth while fast asleep and attempted to walk across the landing plank. He went flop into the river, but managed to grip the paddle wheel, and was saved.

It will be remembered that when the official chart of the Bahia Blanca harbor appeared in the War and Marine Report much astonishment was expressed that the soundings made by the gun-boat Bermejo were not affixed, in order to give navigators more or less an idea of the depth of the channel and of water over the sand-banks. This astonishment has been increased by the fact that Mr. Peuser has published a report with a fair number of soundings giving a general idea of the bay; but it now appears that Lieutenant Domecq of the Navy has begun legal proceedings against the publishers on the ground that these soundings were subreptiously or otherwise abstracted from the Nation, the legal proprietor of the soundings. Thus the matter stands; the prosecution promises to be interesting, especially to naval men who had gathered a rather erroneous idea of the industry and hard-work of Major Howard, when buoying Bahia Blanca.

Municipal Inspectors should pay a little attention to the wretched state of some tramway lines in this city; in the Calle Piedad for instance the track is in such awful condition that during wet weather there is no walking on the left hand side of the street, as clothes are bespattered in the most merciless manner. An editor getting out of the tramway yesterday had to buy a new hat and a new suit of clothes on this account: in Great Britain one might sue for damages from the company, but here alas! there is no hope of getting a copper.

We call attention to the able and very complimentary article on General Roca which we take from our colleague the Tribuna Nacional; every line is true to the point; it is written with a dashing pen.

The feeding telegrams from the inaugurating party, bound for Bahia Blanca, are an eloquent proof of the supremacy of matter in all these ceremonies. We may anticipate some startling telegrams after the banquet, the advices up to date are a flavory prelude; Pyrite water will form the epilogue.

We hear from Corrientes that Dr. Rivarola has resigned as Judge. Dr. Subari has been named to replace him. The Minister of Finance, Dr. Gomez, has also resigned as Deputy to Congress. He will come to Buenos Ayres as soon as his resignation is accepted. Mr. Thomas Bedoya is still very ill. Let us hope that his constitution will get the better of his illness.

Muy Señores mios.

Como vendedores del acreditado "Especifico de Glycerina" no es grato decirlos, despues de larga esperiencia, que no he encontrado otro remedio igual para la curacion de la "Sarna" y matanza de los "Gusanos."

No daña la lana, al contrario la da fortaleza y brillo.

Muy Señores mios.

Como remedio para la Sarna y los Gusanos, de los tantos que se venden, no conozco alguno tan eficaz como el "Especifico de Glycerine" que Vds venden.

Este es mi opinion formado con la esperiencia de muchos años.

De Vds. y attos. y s. s.

EUGENIO G. GAHAN.

Estancia Pereda, Estacion Pinedo, F.C. del Sud, March 30th, 1878.

Messrs Moore & Tudor, Buenos Aires.

Gentlemen,

Many thanks for so promptly sending the "Glycerine Dip." It has saved thousands of animals in this neighbourhood. The news of the instantaneous cure of maggots in our cattle and sheep spread like a camp fire, and our neighbours for leagues round came for "un poco de remedio para probar," but they soon came back for more and would pay any price; they came daily from all quarters, even beyond the Azul; they could not believe the price to be 4$ per lb. out here, the "remedios" they got from the "boticas" being so much more expensive and less effective

We tried the "Glycerine Dip" last year for curing Scab; it answered perfectly; we have this year tried several dips to prove which was the best and cheapest, and believe the "Glycerine Dip" to be the best and cheapest by a long way. We intend to use no other dip for the future.

Yours truly

W. R. GRANT.

Cedulas A	100½
Cedulas E	89⅝
Cedulas F	85½
National Bank Shares....	135½

There was a sudden turn in the share market this morning, and the stock went up like a rocket. The plethora of money is beginning to be felt and large amounts have been taken up on stock, but in spite of this fact there is a general impression that the rise in the share market this morning is a mere feint of the bulls. Although a fall is anticipated up to the end of this month a reaction is expected in May. Over 600 shares were sold for the end of the month; the market opened at 139½, went up ¼, but closed at the opening rate. The firmness of the market today formed a striking contrast to the weakness of the situation yesterday. A rumor was floated in the morning that one party had offered to buy 10,000 shares from the King at 138⅜; this rumor met with incredulous smiles all round.

The Scrip rules exceedingly firm, and the Italians' friend bought one thousand for next month at 50. A few were sold cash at the same rate. The Certificados are very buoyant and the demand in the market continues strong. It is indeed remarkable to hear the many brokers shout "compro Certificados", and the activity in this paper is increasing every day. The Scrip is the cheapest stock in the market at present, and appears to march quite independently of the paid-up shares.

A lull seized the Cedula market and the strong aid of yesterday's heavy purchases was wanting to help the Series E. Operations were small and rates ruled weak. A few thousand Series A changed hands at the usual rate; also some Series E at 89⅜, and F at 85½. Fifteen thousand E were sold for the end of the month at 89⅜—a rather sharp fall since yesterday morning.

Exchange on Montevideo is weaker and there is much flatness in the market; operations were reported to-day and yesterday at 1½-⅝; something rumored as low as 7/16. Exchange on Europe is dull; rates 47½-47⅝.

The ease of the money market is becoming daily more conpicuous; the large discounts of the two leading banks, the improved tone of the exchange market and the favorable news of the loan, all contribute to remove the pressure felt of late. There are some brokers who think that money will rule at 6½ o/o next month and at lower rates in winter.

Land brokers report a melancholy snag-up in the land business; there is absolutely nothing doing; lands, it appears, are held by investors and speculators who have no need whatever of selling, and therefore ask prices which must be considered exhorbitant in the actual dull state of the business. Several transactions have fallen through of late, owing to the increasing pretensions of landholders.

Several well-known estancieros, capitalists and others, endeavoured this morning to get up a champagne party to toast the Bahia Blanca inauguration; but these efforts met with a cold shrug of shoulders and the attempt was dropped. A colleague proposed a banquet at the Café de Paris, but it was of no avail, and all appeared to attach far more importance to the quotation of shares than to one of the grandest events in the history of the country.

The attention of the Municipality is called to the state of the road in Barracas; something might be done at present to repair them as otherwise they will soon become intransitable as happened last winter.

Mr. Villalonga, head accountant of the National Railways, accompanied by Mr. A. Jones, his secretary, leaves to-morrow for Rosario, whence they will proceed to Cordoba and Tucuman. The inauguration of the Andine Railway to Mendoza will come off towards the end of next month; it is thought that the ceremony will take place on the 25th of May. This and the inauguration of the Bahia Blanca extension mark an epoch in the great advance of the country. Next year the extension to San Juan will be completed—a very important branch of the great Andine line.

Advices from Tucuman state that the celebrated viaduct is approaching completion; seven arches remain to be raised. This viaduct is 230 metres long, 26 metres high and built of compressed bricks; there are 22 arches, and when completed, the viaduct will be one of the greatest engineering works of the country. The brick-kilns do not turn out enough bricks for the activity of the workmen.

Captain Eden arrived this morning from the Colonia Alejandra and leaves again this evening for Montevideo to catch the Cotopaxi, having been summoned through telegram by Messrs. Thomson, Bonar & Co. He informs us that the camps belonging to the colony are of the very best quality and values the 26 leagues of which the colony consists at no less than £200,000. Owing to his representation Messrs Thomson, Bonar & Co. have countermanded the sale of the colony, which as we announced a short time ago, was offered in our market. Captain Eden expects to be back in three months, having acquired two and a half leagues of camp, which he is going to fence in and has already begun to stock.

The following were the sales at the ring during official hours:—

Cedulas—

For cash A 2,000 at	100½
For cash E 8,300 at	89⅜
For April 30th E 15,000 at	89⅜
For cash F 400 at	85½
Sales, 25,700

National Bank Shares—

For April 30th 550 at	139½-½-¾
For May 31st 600 at	140¾-141-140¾
Sales, 1,150

Argentine Gas Shares—

For cash 30 at	$1,150⅝

National Bank Certificates, 30 o/o paid—

For cash 30 at	$50

Many merchants in this market wil regret to hear that Mr Constant Pequin died in Paris on the 20th ult deceased was for many years a merchant in the R. Plate and had a very wide circle of friends.

Three cargoes of coal are reported sold at $10½-½-10 per ton. The stock here is fair and there is little business doing whole-sale. Shipments from Europe continue normal.

Freights shew no change; bales are no longer so plentiful, as exporters hold back in view of the accumulation of wool in France, but rates are unchanged at 12½d. and francs all round.

As an instance of the losses sustained by the fall of wheat we may cite the instance of a leading estanciero who has 8000 sacks in his estancia house; the wheat does not pay the cost of freight.

Some operations in exchange were reported this afternoon at 47 9/16-⅜; a fair amount was done.

Telegrams from the Mount announce the sale of from four to six thousand American hides at 79. Three steamers leave Montevideo to-night for this city.

During afterhours 1500 certificados of the National Bank were sold at 50 for the end of the month. There was more doing in the scrip than in shares, the latter rose to 139½, and the market looked so firm that many thought the stock bound for 140; but the market began to decline rapidly and closed at 139⅜ sellers, 139½ buyers. Cedulas closed at 89½, sellers. Very little business was transacted in the evening.

As yet the engineers and surveyors appointed by the Buenos Ayres, Santa Fe and Cordoba Governments have not begun their task of defining the disputed limits of their respective provinces. Operations, it is hoped, will begin before the 1st of May.

Mr. Rufino Degreef, auctioneer, sold yesterday the following lots in La Plata:—

EDITOR'S TABLE.

Houses are getting so scarce in town that a medical man is looking for a zoteos to rent whereon to build, paying a moderate rent to the owner of the land and leaving him the property after a term of four, five or ten years. Houses were never so much in demand as at present, in spite of the building fever we witness in every street.

Our lady readers should pay a visit to Mr. Ochoa's house in Calle Peru and have a look at the furniture, belonging to a French nobleman, that is to be sold on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday next. The pocket reels at the idea of the money required to buy these treasures. Fancy porcelain jars at $180,000 m/c each, and a bed at $300,000 ! ! Plates at 14,000 francs each ; carpets at 10,000 francs ; a sideboard 300,000 m/c, and so on. Even the reckless extravagance of our wealthy classes must pause before such valuations.

We salute Alderman Dr. Recke, who has just passed his examination as Medical Doctor with flying colours The new M.D., we believe, does not intend to abandon his well-known apothecary's shop in consequence of his rise in the profession.

Referring to the fact that Matthew Arnold has been persuaded to take lessons in elocution since coming to this country, the London Pall-Mall Gazette says: "The British public would owe American audiences a real debt of gratitude if they could persuade Mr. Irving also to learn how to speak English in a manner understood of the people." Coming from high British sources, this is rather rough on Henry.—N. Y. Herald.

We have received a communication from fair "Judy" of Montevideo, in reference to the Bachelors' Ball there. It must have been delayed in the post and, as it was written before the ball, it is too late to publish it now. If the charming Judy should elect to send us a description of the ball (not too long) we shall be happy to publish it.

The Industrial Club deserves well of its fellow citizens. It wrote to the City Fathers yesterday, protesting against the fresh tax of 20 cents on meat carcases. The excessive taxation of food in Buenos Aires is simply a disgrace to its Corporation.

Instruments for the destruction of human life are growing more and more numerous every day. An officer in the French army has just invented a new gun, which fires 22 shots per minute. It is said that this gun can be had at a cheaper rate than an ordinary rifle. Its weight is about 8 lbs. The cartridge weighs about 31 grammes; so that soldiers will be able to carry a greater quantity of cartridges, and thus be enabled to save a good deal of trouble whilst fighting. Mr Alexander Picard (we had almost forgotten to give the inventor's name) has made a discovery that will be of great consequence in a short time.

We hear from San Juan that Dr. Doncel, elected Governor of that Province, and who will take the direction of affairs on the 12th of next month, has just received a letter from Napoleon Burgoa, who offers to make himself his prisoner, provided he be assured of the total impartiality of his judges. Governor Gil is on the road to recovery.

The police have floored another Lottery—which, according to our colleague La Nacion, was nothing but a deliberate swindle. The "empresa" consisted of three or four vagabonds living in a "conventillo" in Calle Corrientes. No drawing ever took place, and the rascals always went to Montevideo the day the false extract was issued, lest the police might have heard of their "goings on." One of them was arrested the other day on his return. The lot of them are connected with several "hells" in this city. This is the second Lottery swindle recently unearthed, and it should be a caution to the public.

We thank the kind friends who replenished our official cellar yesterday, with the philanthropic intention of "keeping us up" to our work while our Gefe is enjoying himself at Bahia Blanca.

Telegrams from Entre Rios say that Colonel Salvanach has got into trouble and prison for his connection with the recent 'chirinada' in the Banda Oriental.

By Mr. Irving's system of pronunciation, "God" becomes "ghad," while "dog" becomes "dug."—Philadelphia Press.

All the 'confiteros,' 'licoristas' 'et hoc genus omne' who were recently fined smartly for poisoning the public have petitioned to be 'let off' this time, and they wont do it again. 'Wont do it again ?' 'Que esperanza !' Make every man Jack of them pay up to the last cent, and then, perhaps, some short time may elapse before they do it again.

The foundation of the vast fortune of the Anchorena family was laid by old Mr. Anchorena, who died 20 years ago, leaving sixty millions currency to be divided between three heirs. It is calculated that since then the three fortunes have each increased tenfold.

Mr. Lazarus Larco was knocked down and had his crown cracked on Thursday by a carriage furiously driven by a boy of 12, named Lopez. Larco was not much hurt, but he very justly remarked that boys of 12 should not be allowed to go larking about the city in charge of horses and vehicles. Mr. Larco was so far recovered yesterday that he was able to rise with the lark and go about his usual work.

"Toujours Moi !" Dr. Sarmiento has had his bust taken in Chile, and will leave it as a souvenir to the "Escuela Sarmiento" in Valparaiso.

Para los que duden del valor de las tierras, les aconsejamos que lean los diarios de Nueva Zelandia (Auckland) y Australia, donde campos como estos se venden á 5 patacones el area, que equivalen a 33000 $ú treinta y cuatro mil patacones la legua cuadrada, y podran ver que los campos se venden allí hasta 12½ millones la legua.
